Equal Justice?
EQUALITY VERSUS EQUITY

SAMENESS VERSUS FAIRNESS
Parity in the Criminal Justice System

- Equality relates to sameness (ex. Sentencing Guidelines)
- Parity relates to fairness
- Recognizes that treating people with different needs the same (equal treatment) does not achieve fairness in treatment / outcomes (equitable treatment)
Does Gender Matter?
EQUALITY VERSUS EQUITY

Success / Law-Abiding / Rehabilitation / Recovery

Privileged Average Disadvantaged

Where do we go from here?
Guiding Principles – GR Model

- Gender - acknowledge that gender matters
- Environment - create and sustain an environment based on safety, respect, and dignity;
- Relationships - Policies and practices should be relationship based and promote healthy connections to children, family, significant others, and the community.
- Relevant Service and Appropriate Supervision - used to address substance abuse, trauma, and mental health
- Socioeconomic Status - provide opportunities to improve their conditions
- Community - Community supervision and re-entry with comprehensive and collaborative services

Bloom, Owen, and Covington, 2003
Gender Responsive Supervision of Justice Involved Women and Girls

- Supervision is closely linked to Risk / Need Areas – proper assessment is key
- Strengths based and client lead
- Programming that is gender responsive
- Graduated / Tailored contact standards
- High Failure rate on traditional supervision – contributing factors and strategies for success

Example of Rice County’s current supervision model is available as a handout
Best Practices in the work

- Anticipate Challenges and Reduce barriers
- Policies and procedures based on what works for women – EBP
- Utilize tools and opportunities that address risk and need – GR programs, Carey Guides, SMART goals, Reflection Diaries (versus thought logs)
- Recognize gender needs
- Relationship based groups
- Focus on using strengths and mobilizing resources to allow her to solve her own problems
Gender Specific Caseloads
